

WHAT JOSH IS SAYING...

- “When we give in to our cravings...we give up on our reasoning.”
- “Pastor, help your people so that the lies of pornography will not be the legacy they leave their children...it’s up to you.”
- “The attraction of porn speaks louder than the voice of some Christian leaders.”
- “The deafening silence of some Christian leaders on this issue is doing as much harm to children and families as all the pornographers combined.”
- “We need a Wilberforce and a Bonhoeffer in the church today who have the courage to battle the devastation of porn as they did slavery and Nazism.”
- “The stupidity of culture is displayed when a child needs an ID to buy a pack of cigarettes but can freely go to the Internet and be consumed by pornography.”
- “One of the greatest sins today is the pastor who does not equip parents to biblically, medically, scientifically, culturally and physically address porn with their children.”
- “Pastor, lead or be led.”
- “The evangelical pastors who do not lead in the battle against porn will have the devastating consequences on their shoulders and conscience.”
- “Porn is possibly the greatest threat to the church in its existence.”
- “Porn strikes at both your morality and your theology.”
- “The devastating impact of Internet pornography is a global phenomenon, and not one country or culture in the world is isolated from its reach.”
- “It is very possible that there is not one church in the world not challenged with pornography.”
- “We cannot blame the world for the church remaining silent...we [the church] are guilty of destroying our children’s future.”
- “Adolescents are the most vulnerable to sexually explicit material”
- “Internet pornography has replaced the school, the church and the home as a source of sex education.”

- “Any man, woman or child, who indulges in pornography are guilty of victimizing others.”
- “He who cannot control himself... cannot be a freely giving to others person.”
- “When you have a woman branded into your mind... you rob yourself of true intimacy with your spouse.”
